Webinar Demonstrates Criticality of E-Signature Adoption for Enterprises

E-Signatures can drastically shorten overall contract lifecycle and costs by at least 50%

EDMONTON, ALBERTA, CANADA—Upside Software Inc., a global leader in enterprise contract management software, and DocuSign, the leading Web-based electronic signature service, announce a joint webinar to be held on April 30th, 2008 at 11:30am EST.

In this new era where efficiency is a key metric of an organization's competitiveness strategy, driving a lower contract cycle time is paramount. E-Signatures have proven to help by reducing contract lifecycle and costs by at least 50%, when used as an integral part of a contract management solution. This webinar will bring relevant industry facts and trends from Tim Cummins, President & CEO of IACCM, Ken Moyle, General Counsel & Vice President for DocuSign and Ashif Mawji, CEO for Upside Software.

The discussion will cover topics ranging from e-signature validity around the world to which global organizations are using this technology and will include concrete facts on efficiencies gained and other benefits realized. In addition, a brief demonstration will be included, proving how quickly and simply a contract can be created and signed, with 100% automation and fully compliant based on the organization's governance structure. There will be sufficient time offered as well to ask questions and have an interactive feedback with the panelists.
