Upside Software Ranked Highest in Latest CLM Report

Leading Independent Research Firm Ranks Upside Software Highest in Contract Lifecycle Management

Upside Software Inc., the global leader in enterprise contract management software, has announced that a new report issued by AMR Research, titled "Contract Lifecycle Management Landscape: Why CLM Technologies Need To Be Part of Your Supply Chain." published on Oct 29, 2009 ranks Upside Software highest amongst 17 vendors based on 17 criteria.

The criteria all vendors were ranked on were based on 17 different elements, including speed to value, user interface/experience, contract authoring, general business strength and other key items. Upside scored the highest possible (i.e. 5 out of 5) in all categories except performance measurement & analytics where it scored 4 out of 5. Version 6.3 (due Nov 2009) addresses this with improved analytics.

Upside Software continues to add new customers at tremendous rates and develop its award winning product suite. The global markets are starting to rebound and at no other time has the demand for effective and efficient contract management software been greater. Companies are seeking ways to streamline their processes and leverage software with industry best practices. UpsideContract, which is the leading contract lifecycle management solution available, is in extremely high demand across organizations of all sizes and industries.

"We are very pleased with the insight shared by AMR Research and of course honored to score as the top provider in Contract Lifecycle Management" said Ashif Mawji, President & CEO, Upside Software. "The report provides great insight into the CLM process and how best to leverage it, while avoiding pitfalls. We strongly recommend reading it to all prospects and clients, which is why we are delighted to be able to provide it to our prospects and customers."
